Introduction

The Architectural Publications Index (API) is the published version of the British Architectural Library's (BAL) own periodicals subject index; as such it makes one of the world's greatest collections of architectural information accessible to architects, researchers, students, art and architectural historians, librarians and all those working in or interested in the built environment.

Designed as an up-to-date general, though selective, index to some 300 of the world's architectural periodicals, it is published quarterly, the fourth issue constituting a cumulation of the year's contents.

It is produced at maximum speed, though delays in receipt of overseas periodicals will of course result in corresponding delay in the indexing of their contents in the API. A list of periodicals analysed, with year and issue is included.

The API also includes details of recently published books on architecture and related topics. These are available for consultation at the British Architectural Library.

Publication data

The API is published quarterly, with an annual cumulation, for the British Architectural Library by RIBA Enterprises Ltd and available from:

RIBA Bookshops
Construction House
56–64 Leonard Street
London EC2A 4LT
Telephone: 020-7251 0791
Fax: 020-7608 2375
E-mail: sales@ribabooks.com
Web: www.ribabookshops.com

Subscription rates

Details of the current subscription rate for the full service (4 issues including Cumulative volume) and for the Cumulative volume only are available from RIBA Bookshops.

Copies of Cumulative editions from volume 2 onwards of the API are still available, and details and prices may be obtained from RIBA Bookshops.

The British Architectural Library welcomes suggestions on format, content and periodicals indexed in the API.

History

The API in its present form dates from August 1972. It is, however, the latest stage in the development of an information service which began as the RIBA Library Review of Periodicals in the 11 November 1933 issue of the RIBA Journal. From November 1946 to July 1972 it appeared as a separate quarterly publication, the RIBA Library Bulletin. From 1965 to 1972 the quarterly issues were cumulated annually as the RIBA Annual Review of Periodicals Articles. In 1971 a microfilm edition of the Library's own card index to periodicals covering the period 1956–1970 was published. This can be purchased from:

World Microfilms Publications
Microworld House
2–6 Foscote Mews
London W9 2HH

In 1972 the method of production was changed to photo-offset lithography from letterpress to overcome the increasing delays encountered with the latter form of production, and to accommodate the increased number of periodicals indexed. In order to make the index essentially an up-to-date and current information tool, the cards in the BAL's own periodical index were photographed and published quarterly as the Architectural Periodicals Index. The first volume covered the period August 1972 to December 1973 and subsequent volumes covered calendar years.

During 1977 the architectural firm of Hutton + Rostron developed a mechanised system for indexing in the BAL and from the beginning of 1978 this system has been employed to produce the API. This speeds production and provides a higher standard of printing. Computerisation, moreover, has made various innovations possible, such as a Names Index in every issue and a Topographical Index in the cumulative issue.

Since 1989 details of books catalogued by the BAL have been incorporated in the API quarterly issues and annual cumulation. The API was retitled in 1995, becoming the Architectural Publications Index.

Subject scope

The fields covered in the API include architecture and allied arts, constructional technology, design and environmental studies, landscape, planning, and relevant research. In all these fields articles on both current practice and historical aspects are included. In planning the stress is on actual schemes, conservation and urban history rather than on pure theory and research, or its sociological aspects. In construction and building technology proprietary product information and highly technical material written for other disciplines such as civil or mechanical engineering, surveying etc. are not indexed. Nor in professional practice are statistics or case law covered. In areas such as interiors, decoration, painting, sculpture, furniture, landscaping and the like, the criterion is normally the involvement of, or the direct significance of the work to, the architect.

Every attempt is made to cover architecture world-wide and periodicals from some 45 countries are at present indexed. However, a greater emphasis is placed on architecture and design in Great Britain, and all projects and designs in Great Britain, executed or unexecuted, as well as British work abroad are indexed when significant information, i.e. more than mere notes, is supplied.

As to form, book reviews, letters and news items are generally omitted but obituaries of architects (though not simply notices of death) are included.

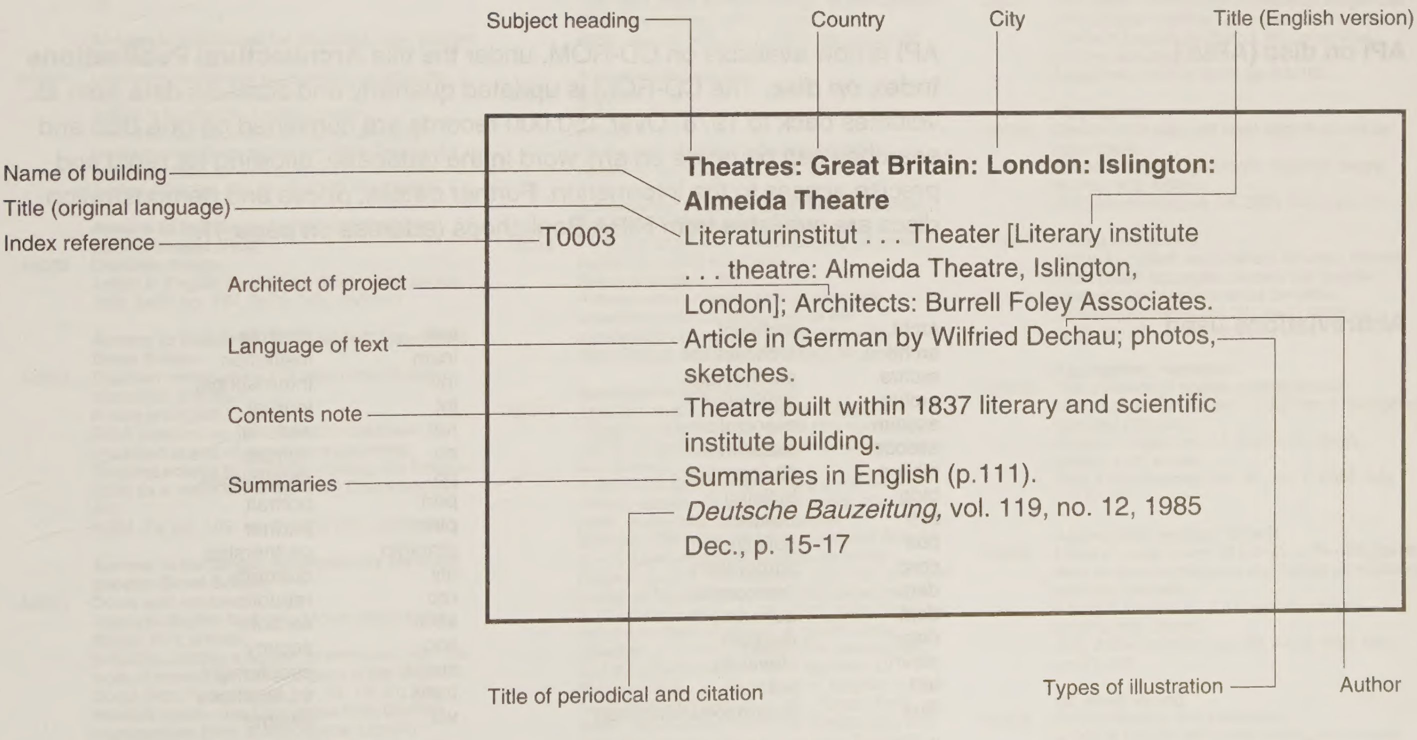
Arrangement and format

The API is an alphabetically arranged subject index whose headings are derived from the Architectural Keywords. Where a specific design is described it is entered under the appropriate building type, and the heading is extended to incorporate the country, the particular locality and the name of the building or project if known. But where the work of an architect, planner etc. is described in general, the article is indexed under the subject heading for the profession in question, i.e. Architects, Town Planners, etc.; again in these entries, the geographical area where the practice of the architect etc. is registered is incorporated in the heading, e.g. Architects: France. Names of firms are entered according to the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules e.g. Architects: United States: John Portman & Associates, and not as Portman, John & Associates, and are alphabetized accordingly. National architecture is subdivided by date e.g. French Architecture: 1890–1910, or, French Architecture: Paris: 1848–1914.

Architectural Keywords provides the necessary guide to locations of subjects in the API. It is available from RIBA Bookshops. Commercial constraints prevent the inclusion of cross-references in the API.

The Index entry itself is constructed as follows: title of the article (original language title and English version, with a note indicating the original language); the name of the architect, project architect, partner in charge etc. if given; the author of the article if given; the types of illustration (plans, details, sections, elevations, sketches, axonometric views, diagrams, tables, graphs, models, photos and portraits) together with references to bibiographies and cost analyses. If the subject content of the article is not clear from the title, a note in clarification is added. The presence of summaries is noted and if the article is part of a series, a series statement is included.

The entry concludes with the title of the periodical, its volume and issue number, dates and the inclusive pagination of the article.



Theatres: Great Britain: London: Islington: Almeida Theatre
T0003 Literaturinstitut . . . Theater [Literary institute . . . theatre: Almeida Theatre, Islington, London]; Architects: Burrell Foley Associates.
Article in German by Wilfried Dechau; photos, sketches.
Theatre built within 1837 literary and scientific institute building.
Summaries in English (p.111).
Deutsche Bauzeitung, vol. 119, no. 12, 1985 Dec., p. 15-17

Indexes

Each issue of the API carries a Names Index giving the names of authors of articles, architects and architectural firms, designers and planners of projects, organisations, and other names relevant to the subject scope. Names of buildings are not included in the Names Index, but appear in the Topographical and Building Names Index of the cumulative (i.e. 4th) issue of the API. This index gives, as applicable, country, region, city/town, building name or part of town in that order, as well as direct entry by name of building.

Photocopying service

Every periodical indexed in the API is held by the British Architectural Library from which photocopies of articles indexed can be obtained. To comply with current copyright regulations a Copyright Declaration must be signed. Please note that copyright regulations forbid a complete issue of any periodical to be copied. Each request must include the title of the article, the name and number of the periodical in which it appears, the pagination indicated as well as the chronological index number (e.g. B–0048) and the issue number and year of the API from which you are quoting. To prevent delays in fulfilling photocopying orders it is suggested that the following declaration be quoted and signed:

‘Please supply me with one copy of each of the following items. I will use the copy/copies for the purpose of research and private study only, and no library has previously supplied me with a copy/copies of this/these items’
Signature . . .

Photocopies can be made as either A4 or A3 sizes, and the BAL will select the appropriate size for each order. Do not remit any money in advance; an invoice including postage will be sent. Orders should be addressed to:

British Architectural Library
Royal Institute of British Architects
66 Portland Place
London W1B 1AD
Fax: 020-7631 1802

API on disc (API*d*)

API is now available on CD-ROM, under the title Architectural Publications Index *on disc. The CD-ROM is updated quarterly and contains data from all volumes back to 1978. Over 150,000 records are contained on one disc and searches can be made on any word in the database, allowing for rapid and precise access to the information. Further details, prices and demonstration discs are available from RIBA Bookshops (address on page 1).

Air conditioning: cost

A0044 Specifier. Part 4: Air-conditioning.
Article in English by Alex Smith, and others; photos, tables.
Includes: Natural selection: Natural History Museum Darwin Centre (Guy Comely of HOK & Lobb), by Alex Smith, 4-8; Checklist: air-conditioning and environmental control, by Keith Carter of Mott Green & Wall, p. 11; Lifetime costs: cool runnings, by John Armstrong, p. 12-13; Regulations, by the Chartered Institution of Building Services Engineers, p. 15 [Part L of the Building Regulations in relation to air-conditioning]; Products, p. 16-22.
Building, vol. 267, Specifier supplement, 2002 May, pp4-22

A0045 The CPD collection. Thermal wheels.
Article in English by Tim Dwyer; bibliog, diagrs, graphs, photos, refs.
Installation of a thermal wheel in a HVAC system as an energy saver.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp71-74

Air conditioning: cost: Great Britain

A0046 Cost model. Chilled ceilings and beams.
Article in English by Davis Langdon & Everest and Mott Green & Wall; illus, tables.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 5, 2001 May, pp22-23, 26

A0047 Making use of free cooling.
Article in English by Paul Oliver; graphs, photos, tables.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp58-59

Air conditioning: efficiency

A0048 Part J, HVAC, efficiency controls.
Article in English by Paul Compton and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, ports, tables.
Includes: Reaping rewards of efficient HVAC design, p. 12-13; Natural ventilation, by Paul Compton, p. 14-15; Chilled water systems air conditioning, by Ian Roper, p. 16-17; The special features of radiant ceiling panels, p. 18-19; The use of ultraviolet light for the disinfection of airborne pathogens, p. 20-22.
Bldg Engineer, vol. 77, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp12-22

Air conditioning: efficiency: analysis

A0049 Multicriteria analysis of ventilation in summer period.
Article in English by P Blondeau, and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, plans, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 2, 2002 Feb., pp165-176

Air conditioning: efficiency: calculations, data

A0050 Influence of the floor-based obstructions on contaminant removal efficiency and effectiveness.
Article in English by K Hagstrom, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 1, 2002 Jan., pp55-66

Air conditioning: energy conservation

A0051 Air conditioning and ventilation.
Article in English by Hywel Davies, and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, refs.
Includes: Cooling Britannia?, by Hywel Davies, p. 41; Taking it to the max, by David Butler and Michael Swainson, p. 43-45; Cool and green, by Julian Brunnock, p. 46-47; Right first time, by Stephen Kennett, p. 48; Excess energy, by Stephen Kennett, p. 51-52; Lagging behind, by Geoff Wright, p. 54.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 8, 2002 Aug., pp41-54

A0052 The CPD collection. Cool combination.
Article in English by Tim Dwyer; diagrs, photos, refs, tables.
On chilled beams combined with other services in a modular & integrated system.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 8, 2002 Aug., pp77-80

A0053 The CPD collection. Thermal wheels.
Article in English by Tim Dwyer; bibliog, diagrs, graphs, photos, refs.
Installation of a thermal wheel in a HVAC system as an energy saver.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp71-74

Air conditioning: energy conservation: analysis

A0054 Principles of energy analysis in HVAC and evaluation of evaporative cooling schemes.
Article in English by Ren Chengqin, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 11, 2002 Nov., pp1045-1055

Air conditioning: energy conservation: calculations, data: China: Hong Kong

A0055 Effect of condensing unit layout at building re-entrant on split-type air-conditioner performance.
Article in English by T T Chow and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, refs, tables.
Study of Hong Kong residential buildings.
Energy & Buildings, vol. 34, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp237-244

Air conditioning: energy conservation: control: occupants' aspect

A0056 Advanced fuzzy logic controllers design and evaluation for buildings' occupants thermal-visual comfort and indoor air quality satisfaction.
Article in English by D Kolokotsa and others; diagrs, graphs, tables.
Energy & Buildings, vol. 33, no. 6, 2001 July, pp531-543

Air conditioning: energy conservation: & technology: Great Britain

A0057 Making use of free cooling.
Article in English by Paul Oliver; graphs, photos, tables.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp58-59

Air conditioning: equipment: efficiency: evaluation: China: Hong Kong

A0058 Influence of clearances on the energy performance of window-type air-conditioners at the same level outside residential buildings.
Article in English by M Bojic, and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 7, 2002 July, pp713-726

Air conditioning: equipment: testing: Taiwan

A0059 Design of test method and detailed ratings of variable air volume fan-coil units.
Article in English by M T Ke; diagrs, graphs, illus, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 5, 2002 May, pp447-453

Air conditioning: evaluation

A0060 A critical review on the performance and design of combined cooled ceiling and displacement ventilation systems.
Article in English by Atila Novoselac and Jelena Srebric; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Energy & Buildings, vol. 34, no. 5, 2002 June, pp497-509

Air conditioning: filtration

A0061 Air restorer.
Article in English by Andy Pearson; diagrs, tables.
On air purification systems for offices.
Building, vol. 267, no. 8224 (9), 2002 Mar. 8, pp52-53

Air conditioning: filtration: testing

A0062 Particle deposition in ventilation duct onto three-dimensional roughness elements.
Article in English by Alvin C K Lai, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp939-945

Air conditioning: Great Britain

A0063 Market watch: air conditioning.
Article in English by Karen Fletcher; graphs, photos, tables.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 9, 2001 Sept., pp16-17

Air conditioning: occupants' aspect: evaluation: Taiwan

A0064 A study on the comprehensive indicator of indoor environment assessment for occupants' health in Taiwan.
Article in English by Che-Ming Chiang and Chi-Ming Lai; diagrs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp387-392

Air conditioning: physiological effect: research

A0065 New sick building centre to be based in Swedish capital.
Article in English.
Stockholm is to be home to an international centre specialising in the study of Sick Building Syndrome (SBS).
Archts' Jnl, vol. 216, no. 2, 2002 July 11, pp16

Air conditioning: safety

A0066 Part J, HVAC, efficiency controls.
Article in English by Paul Compton and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, ports, tables.
Includes: Reaping rewards of efficient HVAC design, p. 12-13; Natural ventilation, by Paul Compton, p. 14-15; Chilled water systems air conditioning, by Ian Roper, p. 16-17; The special features of radiant ceiling panels, p. 18-19; The use of ultraviolet light for the disinfection of airborne pathogens, p. 20-22.
Bldg Engineer, vol. 77, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp12-22

Air conditioning: specifications

A0067 Specifier. Part 4: Air-conditioning.
Article in English by Alex Smith, and others; photos, tables.
Includes: Natural selection: Natural History Museum Darwin Centre (Guy Comely of HOK & Lobb), by Alex Smith, 4-8; Checklist: air-conditioning and environmental control, by Keith Carter of Mott Green & Wall, p. 11; Lifetime costs: cool runnings, by John Armstrong, p. 12-13; Regulations, by the Chartered Institution of Building Services Engineers, p. 15 [Part L of the Building Regulations in relation to air-conditioning]; Products, p. 16-22.
Building, vol. 267, Specifier supplement, 2002 May, pp4-22

Air conditioning: systems: control: by computer

A0068 Air of luxury; Architects: Paskin Kyriakides Sands.
Article in English, diagrs, photos.
Fully networked domestic air-conditioning system at the Kings Chelsea residential development. The scheme is a combination of new build and conversion of the former Kings College between Kings Road and Fulham Road.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp28-30

Air conditioning: systems: design: by computer

A0069 Needs and trends in building and HVAC system design tools.
Article in English by M W Ellis and E H Mathews; diagrs, graphs, refs.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 5, 2002 May, pp461-470

Air conditioning: systems: efficiency: evaluation

A0070 Indoor air quality comparison of two air-conditioned zones served by the same air-handling unit.
Article in English by K W Tham, and others; diagrs, graphs, plans, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp947-960

Air conditioning: testing: calculations, data: United Arab Emirates: Abu Dhabi (Abu Dhabi)

A0071 Impact of urban spaces and building height on airflow distribution: wind tunnel testing of an urban setting prototype in Abu-Dhabi City.
Article in English by Khaled A Al-Sallal and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, refs, tables.
Archtl Science Review, vol. 44, no. 3, 2001 Sept., pp227-232

Air conditioning: testing: Great Britain: London: Westminster: London Coliseum

A0072 IT case study: a breath of fresh aria; Architects: RHWL Partnership, with engineers: Arup.
Article in English, diagrs, photos.
Use of the STAR-CD computational fluid dynamics [CFD] software solution to improve air circulation at the London Coliseum.
Bldg Engineer, vol. 77, no. 1, 2002 Jan., pp30-31

Air photography: & maps

A0073 All mapped out.
Article in English by Stephen Pacey; illus, photos.
On GIS [Geographical Information Systems] technology.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp73-75

Air photography: Switzerland

A0074 Special issue. Stadtansichten [Townscapes].
Article in French, German, Italian by Richard Buser, and others; illus, photos, refs.
Special issue on the ways in which Swiss towns have been drawn, photographed & represented throughout the ages. Includes: Townscapes, by Richard Buser, p. 2-5 [text in German, Italian & French]; Birds' eye views of Swiss towns: the representation of towns in the 16th and early 17th centuries, by Franziska Kaiser, p. 6-15 [text in German]; Bellentz, Lowertz/Lauis, Luggarus, Mendrisio - views of the period of bailifs & designated governors (Landfogti), by Elfi Rusch, p. 16-20 [text in Italian]; The small town from the perspective of the bourgeoisie, writers and scholars: the graphic reproduction of townscapes between 1780-1880, by Rolf E Keller, p. 21-26 [text in German]; Panoramic views of Lausanne: from drawings assisted by camera obscura to photography, by Sylvain Malfroy, p. 27-35 [text in French]; Aerial photographs of Swiss towns: on the modernisation of Swiss images in the middle of the 20th century, by Burkhard Fuhs, p. 36-45 [text in German]; The Knillenburger Prospekt as an artistic inspiration for the town of Chur in the 17th century, by Beatrice Keller, p. 46-53 [text in German]; Pisa is almost always shown leaning: words & images of the city, by Peter Rollin, p. 54-61 [text in German].
Summaries in German, French or Italian (throughout).

Air pollution

A0075 Report finds that school buildings are increasingly 'sick'.
Article in English by David Sokol.
As buildings became more energy efficient in the 1970s and 1980s they also retained internal air-borne contaminents causing a rise of cases of 'sick-building syndrome'. A report, 'Creating safe learning zones: The ABCs of healthy schools', has been written to educate people to detect and resolve school contamination, as well as to prevent it in new construction.
Archtl Record, vol. 190, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp42

Air pollution: & environment

A0076 CO2 emission consequences of energy measures in buildings.
Article in English by Bjorn Rolfsman; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1421-1430

Air pollution: Canada

A0077 Building Kyoto.
Article in English by Peter Busby; photos.
Author argues that the design professions & the construction industry have much to contribute to meeting Canada's commitments to the Kyoto Protocol on cutting global greenhouse gas emissions. Canada is the ninth largest emitter of GHGs and the highest per capita producers of GHGs in the world.
Canadian Archt, vol. 47, no. 7, 2002 July, pp18-19

Air pollution: control

A0078 A case study of sub-slab depressurization for a building located over VOC-contaminated ground.
Article in English by James P Rydock and Eimund Skaret; diagrs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1343-1347

A0079 Energy and the environment.
Article in English by Terry Wyatt, and others; diagrs, photos.
Includes: Policy v practice, by Terry Wyatt, p. 42-44; Balance sheet, by Christopher Crookall-Fallon, p. 47-49 [looks at opportunities to reduce energy use and cut greenhouse gas emissions]; Payback time, by Danny Coyle, p. 52-53 [Emissions trading as a way of reduction]; Fuel for thought, by Alan Neil Marshall, p. 57-58 [on fuel cells]; Let in the light, keep out the heat, by Robert Buck, p. 61-62.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp42-44, 47-49, 52-53, 57-58, 61-62

A0080 The end is nigh.
Article in English by Terry Wyatt.
Author opines that services engineers should take the lead in carbon management and explains the role of CIBSE's Carbon Task Group.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp15-16

Air pollution: control: evaluation

A0081 An experimental method for contaminant dispersal characterization in large industrial buildings for indoor air quality (IAQ) applications.
Article in English by Philip Demokritou, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
With reference to large, semi-open buildings and public spaces, particularly ice skating rinks.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp305-312

A0082 On the study of the credit-weighting scale in a building environmental assessment scheme.
Article in English by W L Lee, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1385-1396

Air pollution: control: law: Great Britain

A0083 Part L in practice.
Article in English by Glen Irwin, and others; photos, refs.
Includes: L for leisure, by Glen Irwin and others, p. 34-36 [How the new legislation on carbon emissions affect shopping centre planning]; Are you being serviced?, by Peter Grigg, p. 39-42; Acts of commission, by Hywel Davies, p. 44-45.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 9, 2002 Sept., pp34-45

Air pollution: control: policy: Great Britain

A0084 Emissions trading: deal or steal?.
Article in English by Karen Fletcher; photos, tables.
The government seems determined that carbon trading is the way to meet its emissions targets, but will it work for buildings?.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 5, 2002 May, pp12-13

Air pollution: indoor: control: analysis

A0085 CFD analysis on characteristics of contaminated indoor air ventilation and its application in the evaluation of the effects of contaminant inhalation by a human occupant.
Article in English by Tatsuya Hayashi, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp219-230

Air pollution: indoor: control: efficiency: calculations, data

A0086 Influence of the floor-based obstructions on contaminant removal efficiency and effectiveness.
Article in English by K Hagstrom, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 1, 2002 Jan., pp55-66

Air pollution: testing

A0087 Effect of different catalysts in SO2 oxidation over polymeric concrete.
Article in English by S Martinez-Ramirez and A Zamarad; refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1369-1371

A0088 Emissions of total volatile organic compounds from pressed wood products in an environmental chamber.
Article in English by Hai Guo, and others; graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 11, 2002 Nov., pp1117-1126

Air quality: control

A0089 A case study of sub-slab depressurization for a building located over VOC-contaminated ground.
Article in English by James P Rydock and Eimund Skaret; diagrs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1343-1347

A0090 Efficient ventilation of VOC spread in a small-scale painting process.
Article in English by Chang Nyung Kim, and

A0090 continued
others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1321-1328

Air quality: evaluation

A0091 An experimental method for contaminant dispersal characterization in large industrial buildings for indoor air quality (IAQ) applications.
Article in English by Philip Demokritou, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
With reference to large, semi-open buildings and public spaces, particularly ice skating rinks.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp305-312

Air quality: evaluation: Great Britain: Glasgow (Glasgow City): Glasgow School of Art

A0092 Environmental appraisal of historic buildings in Scotland: the case study of the Glasgow School of Art.
Article in English by R Hanna; graphs, photos, plans, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 1, 2002 Jan., pp1-10

Air quality: indoor: & climate: analysis

A0093 Multicriteria analysis of ventilation in summer period.
Article in English by P Blondeau, and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, plans, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 2, 2002 Feb., pp165-176

Air quality: indoor: calculations, data

A0094 Measurement and calculation of the neutral height in a room with displacement ventilation.
Article in English by Huijuan Xing and Hazim B Awbi; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp961-967

Air quality: indoor: evaluation

A0095 Indoor air quality comparison of two air-conditioned zones served by the same air-handling unit.
Article in English by K W Tham, and others; diagrs, graphs, plans, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp947-960

Air quality: indoor: evaluation: Taiwan

A0096 A study on the comprehensive indicator of indoor environment assessment for occupants' health in Taiwan.
Article in English by Che-Ming Chiang and Chi-Ming Lai; diagrs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp387-392

Air quality: indoor: testing

A0097 Particle deposition in ventilation duct onto three-dimensional roughness elements.
Article in English by Alvin C K Lai, and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp939-945

Air raid precautions: sandbags: France

A0098 Architecture sandbagged.
Article in English by Charlotte Ellis; photos.
Exhibition of photographs of French monuments sandbagged to protect them during wartime.
Archtl Review, vol. 210, no. 1258, 2001 Dec., pp30

Airports

A0099 Building types study: 805. Transportation.
Article in English by James S Russell and others; photos, plans, secns.
Includes: Bullet train bailout, by James S Russell, p. 111-113 [A new generation of high-tech passenger trains may rescue beleaguered airlines, opening a new era of intermodal-transportation-facility design]; JFK Terminal 4, Queens, New York (Skidmore Owings & Merrill), by Sarah Amelar, p. 114-119 [SOM replaces its 1957 building with an international terminal better suited to the exigencies of twenty-first-century air travel]; ICE station [Fernbahnhof Flughafen Frankfurt], Frankfurt, Germany (Bothe Richter Teherani), by James S Russell, p. 120-123; Portland International Airport, Portland, Oregon (Zimmer Gunsul Frasca Partnership), by Sheri Olson, p. 124-128 [The airport expansion includes a drop-off curb canopy that is an airport icon as well as a rain shelter].
Archtl Record, vol. 190, no. 1, 2002 Jan., pp111-128

A0100 Fasten your seat belts: transportation design moves into high gear.
Article in English by Julie Lasky, and others; photos.
Includes: Transportation design's baggage, by Julie Lasky, p 10; This end up: International Space Station, Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tx (Garrett Finney), by Tom Vanderbilt, p. 36-41; The ultimate designing machine: BMW's Designworks USA, Newbury Park, Ca (Gensler), by Phil Patton, p. 42-45; Take the 'A' Train? Amtrak Acela Express Train, Northeastern United States (OH&Co in collaboration with IDEO), by Peter Hall, p. 46-49; Bonjour vitesse: Air France Terminal 2 / Hall F, Charles de Gaulle Airport, Paris (Paul Andreu of Aeroports de Paris), by Michelle Ogundehin, p. 50-53; Runway modern: Virgin Atlantic Airways Upper Class Lounge, J F Kennedy International Airport, New York, NY (Tsao & McKown Architects), by Nina Siegal, p. 54-57.
Interiors, vol. 160, no. 2, 2001 Feb., pp10, 36-57

A0101 Flygplaster [Airports].
Article in English, Swedish by Brian Edwards and others; diagrs, elevns, graphs, illus, models, photos, plans, refs, sketches, secns.
Includes: Future directions for airport architecture, by Brian Edwards, p. 4-13; Schengen Hall, Copenhagen Airport (Holm & Grut), p. 14-17; New international terminal, T2, Helsinki-Vantaa Airport (Pekka Salminen), p. 18-21; Oslo Airport, Gardermoen (Aviaplan), p. 22-25; Leifur Eiriksson Airport, Keflavik, Iceland (Holm & Grut), p. 26-27; Pier F and Passage, Arlanda Airport (KHR AS Arkitekter / KHR Rundquist Arkitekter), p. 28-30; Control tower, Arlanda Airport (Wingardh Arkitektkontor), p. 31-33; The Nordic airports - growth points in the communication network of the 21st century, by Mats Beckman, p. 34-43; Bird, fish or terminal?, text and photographs by Rolf Wohlin, p. 44-49.

Arches: monumental: Great Britain: London: Westminster: Wellington Arch, Hyde Park Corner

A0283 The Wellington Arch and the western entrance to London.
Article in English by Steven Brindle; elevns, illus, photos, plans, ports, refs.
London possesses two free-standing triumphal arches, the Wellington Arch and the Marble Arch. Their histories are closely connected: they are of similar date (ca. 1825-1828) and were both planned in relation to Buckingham Palace. Neither was completed to its original design, both have been moved and altered, and both stand in isolation, giving little hint of their original settings. This article considers the history of the Wellington Arch and also the complex prehistory of schemes for a grand western entrance to London (Architect: Decimus Burton; sculptor of Quadriga crowning the arch: Adrian Jones).

A1139 Frank Lloyd Wright and feminism: Mamah Borthwick's letters to Ellen Key.
Article in English by Alice T Friedman; illus, photos, refs.
Eleven recently discovered letters in the Royal Library in Stockholm, written by Mamah Bouton Borthwick and Frank Lloyd Wright to Ellen Key, the Swedish social theorist and feminist reformer, between 1911 and 1914, shed new light on Key's influence, not only on the couple's image of themselves as radical reformers, but also on the design and concept of Taliesin. The texts provide further evidence of the feminist influence on Wright's emerging ideas about individual responsibility, artistic freedom, the family and household life.

A1493 Community involvement in a housing renewal project in the Old City of Jerusalem.
Article in English by Eman Assi; photos, plans, refs.
Housing renewal is a means of preserving buildings of architectural and historic significance as well as a process for returning property to a useful state. This paper documents the experience of the technical office of the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program in rehabilitation and housing renewal. Two historically important residential buildings - Hosh Nseibeh and Hosh Jaber - are used as case studies illustrating the challenges and problems faced in the rehabilitation process. The paper concludes that in a project that requires community involvement, one should not only identify goals and objectives, but also analyze the techniques that are available and the resources they require. The main source of user satisfaction is not so much the degree to which the needs of the clients have been met, but rather their feeling of having influenced the final outcome.

A1532 Conceiving architecture through colour: a feminist enquiry into architectural representation.
Article in English by Katie Lloyd Thomas; illus, photos, refs.
Focuses on the work of Alsop & Stormer and the architectural paintings of Will Alsop. 'By examining his painting practice I will ask how the use of alternative architectural representation might influence and transform the process of bringing a building into being.' 'Will Alsop's practice of conceiving architecture through colour appears to disrupt [the] unity [of formal codes], allowing an architectural conversation to take place that can acknowledge different subjectivities. But if conceiving architecture through colour is indeed one possible feminist figuration, it is a practice to be imagined, appropriated and tested by women.'.

A2080 Conceiving architecture through colour: a feminist enquiry into architectural representation.
Article in English by Katie Lloyd Thomas; illus, photos, refs.
Focuses on the work of Alsop & Stormer and the architectural paintings of Will Alsop. 'By examining his painting practice I will ask how the use of alternative architectural representation might influence and transform the process of bringing a building into being.' 'Will Alsop's practice of conceiving architecture through colour appears to disrupt [the] unity [of formal codes], allowing an architectural conversation to take place that can acknowledge different subjectivities. But if conceiving architecture through colour is indeed one possible feminist figuration, it is a practice to be imagined, appropriated and tested by women.'.

A2161 Conceiving architecture through colour: a feminist enquiry into architectural representation.
Article in English by Katie Lloyd Thomas; illus, photos, refs.
Focuses on the work of Alsop & Stormer and the architectural paintings of Will Alsop. 'By examining his painting practice I will ask how the use of alternative architectural representation might influence and transform the process of bringing a building into being.' 'Will Alsop's practice of conceiving architecture through colour appears to disrupt [the] unity [of formal codes], allowing an architectural conversation to take place that can acknowledge different subjectivities. But if conceiving architecture through colour is indeed one possible feminist figuration, it is a practice to be imagined, appropriated and tested by women.'.

Article in English by Bet McLeod and others; illus, photos, plans, ports.
An exhibition at the Dulwich Picture Gallery pays comprehensive tribute of one of Britain's greatest connoisseur-collectors, William Beckford. Articles celebrate his dazzling career with new research on his Gothic palace, Fonthill Abbey in Wiltshire - its landscape, interiors and influence. Includes: Treasures of England's wealthiest son, by Bet McLeod, p. 40-45 [The author, co-curator of the exhibition, reveals some of the treasures it has brought to light]; Inside Beckford's landscape of the mind, by Tim Mowl, p. 60-63 [A remarkable sequence of grottoes populates the landscape round Fonthill. Although often attributed to Beckford himself, newly discovered documents make it clear that they are the work of his father in the 1740s - the author explores Alderman Beckford's garden and explains how it haunted his son]; Knights in painted glass, by Sarah Baylis, p. 64-67 [One of the most influential aspects of the interior of Fonthill Abbey was its stained glass, designed for Beckford by William Hamilton. The author traces the scheme's remaining fragments and explains the lengths Beckford and Hamilton went to in their search for medieval authenticity]; Echoes of Fonthill, by Michael Hall, p. 68-71 [Fonthill Abbey has fallen and Beckford's treasures are scattered over the world, yet British country houses and their collections reveal how the taste he helped to create remained vibrantly influential throughout the 19th century].

B1289 Imposed floor loading for offices: a re-appraisal.
Article in English by Stuart J Alexander; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables.
The reappraisal of office floor loading has first required a statistical definition of characteristic loading. The provision of the British code BS 6399-1 and Eurocode EN 1991-1-1 are examined, together with those of five non-European-language codes. The considerable variation and inconsistency gives cause for concern and an opportunity for rationalisation.

Chinese architecture: US influence on: 20th century

C0203 Accidental affinities: American Beaux-Arts in twentieth-century Chinese architectural education and practice.
Article in English by Xing Ruan; elevns, photos, plans, refs, sketches, secns.
This essay looks at the adoption of American Beaux-Arts in China through the teaching of a group of architects many of whom had been trained in the 1920s by Paul Cret, the most prominent amongst them being Yang Tingbao. The author attempts to shed some light on the universal Beaux-Arts method and the traditions of one of its adopted localities, China.

C0543 Conceiving architecture through colour: a feminist enquiry into architectural representation.
Article in English by Katie Lloyd Thomas; illus, photos, refs.
Focuses on the work of Alsop & Stormer and the architectural paintings of Will Alsop. 'By examining his painting practice I will ask how the use of alternative architectural representation might influence and transform the process of bringing a building into being.' 'Will Alsop's practice of conceiving architecture through colour appears to disrupt [the] unity [of formal codes], allowing an architectural conversation to take place that can acknowledge different subjectivities. But if conceiving architecture through colour is indeed one possible feminist figuration, it is a practice to be imagined, appropriated and tested by women.'.

Article in English by Peter Blundell Jones; photos.
One of the saddest things about the high modern movement is the way in which it was almost always photographed in monochrome so everyone thought that the buildings were white. However, for example, the work of Bruno Taut shows a keen interest in colour - as the restoration of many of his housing estates demonstrate.

C0558 Palladio's canonical Corinthian entablature and the archaeological surveys in the Fourth Book of 'I quattro libri dell'architettura'.
Article in English by Branko Mitrovic; refs, tables.
'The implication is that by the 1570s a Venetian architect publishing a version of the canon of the five orders was neither expected to copy it directly from ancient monuments nor to derive it from Vitruvius. Instead, it was important to show that he had sufficient expertise in Roman archaeology to demonstrate the necessary competence to formulate the canon himself.'.

World Architecture, no. 106, 2002 May, pp27

C0704 Enclosure design tools.
Article in English by Ted Kesik; illus, photos.
Digital tools represent the future of enclosure design, facilitating innovation & cost-effective production.
Canadian Archt, vol. 47, no. 7, 2002 July, pp36-37

C0705 From modern to the modem.
Article in English by Anthony Hoete; illus.
On the role of the computer in the making of architecture both real and digital.
Monument, no. 46, 2002 Feb./Mar., pp74-78

C0706 Getting a buzz out of sharing.
Article in English by Joe Croser; illus.
Autodesk's new version of the online collaboration tool Buzzsaw is easy to use, powerful and very, very quick.
Archts' Jnl, vol. 216, no. 19, 2002 Nov. 21, pp44

C0707 Getting it together.
Article in English by Stephen Pacey; illus.
Planweaver is a design planning tool that analyses the flow of information so architects can identify key tasks and the areas where they need most help.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 2, 2002 Feb., pp63-64

C0708 High tech for old houses.
Article in English by Jerry Laiserin; illus, photos.
New technologies can help in documenting and diagnosing building conditions.
Old House Jnl, vol. 29, no. 5, 2001 Sept./Oct., pp31-32

C0709 Integral architectures.
Article in English by Gregory More; illus, photos.
Article looks at the capacity of computers to generate shapes and forms of buildings and how Winka Dubbeldam of Archi-tectonics is exploiting them in architectural design.
Monument, no. 45, 2001/2002 Dec./Jan., pp54-58

C0710 Inventer le monde: Prix International Graphisoft [Inventing the world: the International Graphisoft Prize].
Article in French by Jean-Pierre Cousin; illus.
Illustrates winners in the 8th International Graphisoft Prize 2001. First prize winners: Hartmut Liebster and Bergit Hillner.
Architecture d'Aujourd'hui, no. 338, 2002 Jan./Feb., pp118-122

C0711 L'architecture virtuelle: entre simulacre et hyperrealite [Virtual architecture: between simulcrum and hyperreality].
Article in French by Antoine Picon; illus, refs.
Moniteur Architecture AMC, no. 118, 2001 Sept., pp92-95

C0712 Luck of the draw.
Article in English by Stephen Pacey; illus, photos.
New touch-screen technology and software that lets you draw straight onto your computer screen and create instant 3D models.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 5, 2002 May, pp79-80

C0713 Mouse matters.
Article in English by Sutherland Lyall and others; illus, photos, ports, tables.
Includes: Mouse matters, by Sutherland Lyall, p. 33-34 [Coming in all shapes, sizes and materials, the mouse has moved on significantly from its early wooden, rectangular days]; What's hot in Bentley's world?, by Joe Croser, p. 36 [The annual Bentley International User Conference in Atlanta highlighted MicroStation's forthcoming release, V8.1]; Update, by Joe Croser, p. 38-39 [TurboCAD V8 Professional] / Autodesk Architectural Studio]; Round-up, by Ruth Slavid, p. 40.
Archts' Jnl, vol. 215, no. 24, 2002 June 20, pp33-40

C0714 New testament.
Article in English by Mark and Jane Burry; illus, photos.
The recently completed west transcept rose window in Gaudi's Sagrada Familia was created with the help of state of the art computer modelling techniques. The authors (of RMIT, Melbourne, Special Information Architecture Laboratory) worked alngside architects Jordi Fauli and Jordi Bonet.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 6, 2002 June, pp72-74

C0715 Parthenon's rebuilding may be aided by laser-scanning technology.
Article in English by Sam Lubell; photos.
On the possible construction of high resolution 3D models of the temple based on data gathered with laser technology. This would be compared to historical documentation, especially the measured drawings of Francis Penrose, the first architect to measure and document the building's geometry. Finally a scale plastic model would be produced using stereolithography.
Archtl Record, vol. 190, no. 6, 2002 June, pp175-176

C0716 Presentations 1: talking the talk.
Article in English by Sally Goble.
RIBA practice, no. 202. Test-runs hardware and software for presentations.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 5, 2002 May, pp86, 89

C0717 Presentations 2: finishing touches.
Article in English by Cristina Stuart.
RIBA practice, no. 202. Follows on from Sally Goble's article in the same issue of the journal on hardware and software for presentations. Explains how to prepare visual aids.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 5, 2002 May, pp89-90

C0718 Printer wonderland.
Article in English by Joe Croser; illus.
Although the seasonal festivities are over, Christmas may have come again with the latest version of NavisWorks.
Archts' Jnl, vol. 215, no. 3, 2002 Jan. 24, pp58

C0719 Revisiting animation.
Article in English by Madis Pihlak; illus, refs.
Recent technological advances make animations easier to create.
Landscape Archre, vol. 92, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp48, 50-52

C0720 Smoothe operator.
Article in English by Ruth Slavid; illus.
IT practice Smoothe has created an intriguing model that allows architects to view real products in action.
Archts' Jnl, vol. 216, no. 10, 2002 Sept. 19, pp38

C0721 Special issue. Design management in the architectural & engineering office: 'dot.com' meets 'dot.edu'.
Article in English by Godfried Augenbroe and Matthijs Prins; diagrs, graphs, illus, refs, tables.
Includes: Architectural design management within the digital design team, by Ad F den Otter and Matthijs Prins, p. 162-173; Mapping the design process during the conceptual phase of building projects, by Sebastian MacMillan, p. 174-180; Collaborative design planning networks, by John L Heintz, p. 181-191; Managing the selection of energy saving features in building design, by Pieter de Wilde and others, p. 192-208; A distributed process management system for collaborative building design, by Ayca Tuzmen, p. 209-221; Coordinating and customizing design information through the internet, by Ahmed H M Mokhtar, p. 222-231; Managing e-commerce in construction - revolution or e-business as usual?, by Stephen R Lockley and others, p. 232-240; The strategic implications of e-commerce for the design and construction industry, by Robert Johnson and others, p. 241-248; Improving building design through integrated planning and control, by Simon A Austin and others, p. 249-258; Project web sites with design management extensions, by Godfried Augenbroe and others, p. 259-271; Creating usable models for re-usable data - managing electronic project specification information, by Richard Watson and others, p. 272-283; Managing work flow on design projects: a case study, by Glenn Ballard, p. 284-291.
Engineering, construction & archtl management, vol. 9, no. 3, 2002 June, pp161-291

C0722 Special issue. Neue Median [New media].
Article in German by Peter Mortenbock and others; diagrs, illus, models, photos, plans, refs, sketches.
Includes: Digital world and the (self-) perception of architecture, by Peter Mortenbock, p. 8-13 [text in French, p. 64-66]; The influence of digital technology on architectonic design, by Oliver Fritz, p. 14-19; Urban analysis on the Internet, by Thomas Kovari, p. 20-23; Guggenheim Virtual Museum, by Hani Rashid, p. 30-31; The pavilion as architectonic experiment, by Andrea Gleiniger, p. 32-37; How the computer can inspire design, by Kas Oosterhuis, p. 38-41; Prologue of a new visual theory in landscape architecture, by Christophe Girot, p. 42-45; Yokohama Ferry Terminal (Foreign Office Architects), by Ulf Meyer, p. 46-51; Georges Restaurant at the Pompidou Centre, Paris (Jakob & MacFarlane), by Judit Solt, p. 52-57; Pavilion, Floriade Haalemmermeer (Oosterhuis.NL), by Hubertus Adam, p. 58-59; 'ada' - the intelligent space, Expo.02, Neuchatel, by Judit Solt, p. 60-61; 'Cyberhelvetica', Expo.02, Biel, by Judit Solt, p. 62-63.

Redefining architecture: how virtual spaces change real places, by Hani Rashid, p. 36-45; Digital present / real future?, p. 46-57; UN Studio: Museum Het Valkhof, Nijmegen, p. 58-61 / Arnhem station area, p. 62-65.
Zlaty Rez, no. 22, 2001 Summer, pp4-79

C0724 Speed freak.
Article in English by Stephen Pacey; illus.
On Real Time Real Estate [RTRE] virtual reality software.
RIBA Jnl, vol. 109, no. 7, 2002 July, pp71-72

C0725 Structural engineers build a virtual 3D model of Norman Foster's Glass House in Wales.
Article in English by Deborah Snoonian; diagrs.
Archtl Record, vol. 190, no. 5, 2002 May, pp293

C0726 Tangible infoscapes.
Article in English by Eran Ben-Joseph; photos, refs.
Multi-layered manipulative platforms that integrate digital and physical representations will provide a major discourse in design and planning processes.
Landscape Archre, vol. 92, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp54-59

C0727 The architectural skin and the silver screen.
Article in English by Lucy Bullivant; illus.
Digitized architectural environments are an area where the boundary between representational and real architecture really starts to blur. The author draws a line in the landscape of architecture, video and other digital media.
Archis, no. 5, 2002, pp92-95

C0728 The digital practice.
Article in English by Deborah Snoonian and others; illus, photos, tables.
Includes: If your office caught fire tomorrow, could you get back to work a day later?, by Deborah Snoonian, p. 121; With more powerful hardware, multidiscipline design software has its genesis, by Jerry Laiserin, p. 123-124; New Web-based service helps architects gain entree into residential design market, by Christina Rogers, p. 124-125; The big Apple: how architects use the Macintosh in practice, by Louis B Smith, p. 127-132; Digital architect: using digital tools to expand and enhance services, by Jerry Laiserin, p. 135-136; Digital products reviews: tools for accounting, modeling and image management, by Jerry Laiserin, p. 139-140.
Archtl Record, vol. 189, no. 12, 2001 Dec., pp121-140

C0729 Thinking 3D down under.
Article in English by Ruth Slavid; illus.
Architect David Sutherland, of Fender Katsalidis in Australia, is enjoying the benefits of working with 3D design software - they have designed a 90-storey residential tower now under construction in Melbourne using 3D software with their documentation arising out of the design process rather than being a separate activity.

C0754 Intelligent buildings.
Article in English by Chris Chapman, and others; diagrs, photos.
Includes: The IT factor, by Chris Chapman, p. 37-41; Technological winds of change, by Tony Elphick, p. 46-49; Building of the future, by Simon Coleman, p. 51-52.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 6, 2002 June, pp37-41, 46-49, 51-52

C0755 Interoperability.
Article in English, diagrs, illus.
Interoperability involves communicating a construction project via an intelligent three dimensional virtual building model. If adopted by the construction industry, what will it mean for architects?.
Architecture Today, no. 126, 2002 Mar., pp63-64

C0756 Interoperability.
Article in English, secns.
Considers whether the interoperable environment of BAA's Terminal 5 (architects: Richard Rogers Partnership) is a pointer to the way things will work in the construction industry in future.
Architecture Today, no. 132, 2002 Oct., pp81

C0757 IT implementation in the construction organization.
Article in English by Jennifer Whyte, and others; refs, tables.
Engineering, construction & archtl management, vol. 9, no. 5/6, 2002 Oct./Dec., pp371-377

C0758 Looking behind the software.
Article in English by Mark Russell and Dr Panjikel Surendran; illus, refs.
Examines the mathematics behind computational modelling for building services.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 2, 2002 Feb., pp46-47

C0759 Sound bytes.
Article in English by Marcus Fairs; ports.
Discussion with Microsoft's Mark Dodds on IT and the construction industry.
Building, vol. 267, no. 8232 (17), 2002 May 3, pp42-43

C0760 Use or abuse of modelling?.
Article in English by Paul Kingston; illus, photos.
On computational fluid dynamics within the construction industry.
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 8, 2002 Aug., pp57-59

C0761 Visualizing information structures and its impact on project teams: an information architecture for the virtual AEC company.
Article in English by Rudi Stouffs; diagrs, illus, refs.
An information architecture was developed to provide a common technical platform between all partners in the building process. This is to support the formation of virtual companies in the AEC company.
Summaries in French (p. 218).
